

Software Entrepreneurship

Deborah Arhelger

JNBridge

Want to grow your own? Come discuss the payoffs and perils of starting a software company.

Discussion leader Deborah Arhelger spent the first 20 years of her career slinging code for other companies before starting her own. She's currently the co-founder and COO of JNBridge, which provides interoperability software for Java and .NET.